Alberta Chess Report

Publication of the Alberta Chess Association ◆ December 2009

Richard Wang takes Bronze at the WYCC

Richard earns the first Canadian medal at the WYCC since 1986! The rest of the players from Alberta also put in great performances, all of them finishing with 50% or better.

Simon Ong organized an excellent event, complete with a Reserve section, complimentary snacks as well as broadcasting the games live on the internet. David Zhang is the new Alberta Junior champion!

Edmonton International

From December 17-21 Edmonton will be holding their 4th Edmonton International Chess Festival. Side events include lectures and the WBX Team Tournament (December 20-21). The International section will feature live broadcast of all games. Visit their website for more info.

4th Edmonton International Oualifier

By Vlad Rekhson

The new tradition of the Edmonton International tournaments is foreshadowed by the annual qualifier event.

This tournament serves as a way of giving the general chess community a chance to qualify for the big event, as well as a fund-raiser for the International since half the entry fees are used for that purpose.

This year's tournament attracted 17 players, 7 of whom had ratings over 2000. The three top favourites were masters: Dale Haessel (Calgary), Rob "the Rocket" Gardner (Edmonton) and Keith MacKinnon (North Battleford, Saskatchewan). While Dale managed to qualify for the main event every year and "the Rocket" participated twice, Keith never had a chance to participate in the Edmonton International, only missing the qualification spot by half a point last year.

From relatively early on, it became clear that first place will be decided among the three masters. While Keith drew the talented Richard Wang, Rob and Dale were perfect after the first two rounds. In round 3 Dale managed to beat "the Rocket" setting up the penultimate round match-up with Keith. Dale tried to force an early draw; however, Keith managed to win the crucial game, giving him the lead going into the last round. In it, Keith had black against Rob while Dale had white against Aaron "Ironman" Sequillion. Because Keith beat Dale, Keith knew that he would win on tie-break in case they would wind up with the same amount of points. As a result, Keith only needed a draw with "Rocket". Rob on the other hand needed to win and hope for Dale not to beat "Ironman." Rob declined an early draw offer going for the win, but it seemed like after Rob saw that Dale was winning, something gave in and he lost.

As a result Keith MacKinnon becomes Saskatchewan's first ever representative at the Edmonton International and with an average field of 2432 FIDE, boy does he have his work cut out for him!

Keith has taken the time to annotate the following game.

MacKinnon, Keith (2255) Haessel, Dale (2290) Petroff Defence [C43]

Notes by Keith MacKinnon

This game was played in the fourth round, and since I was half a point behind Dale in the standings, I knew that I would need to win in order to have a shot at qualifying for the Edmonton International.

1.e4 e5 2.5 f3 5 f6

The Petroff Defence is usually played when Black is happy with a draw (as was the case in this game).

3.d4 ②xe4 4.\d3 ②c6!?

At first glance, it might seem as if Black has forgotten about his hanging Knight on e4, but if White tries to win it, Black gets a satisfactory position.

5.dxe5

5.\(\dag{\pma}\)xe4 d5= forces White's Bishop back after which Black plays ...e4 forking the Bishop and Knight; 5.d5!? ©c5 6.dxc6 e4= and Black is doing well.

5...d5

5... © c5 is a less common way of playing this position for Black.

6.exd6 2xd6

Here my opponent offered a draw. I was playing for the win, so I definitely wasn't going to accept the early offer of peace.

7.公c3 ge6 8.gf4 ge7 9.曾d2 曾d7 10.0-0-0 0-0-0 11.₩e3

The last few moves have been quite normal for both sides, but this move might seem strange to some. The basic idea is to play $b5 and $\alpha$e5.

11...a6

This is a good move which I hadn't considered too seriously. I figured that Black would play ... $\dot{\phi}$b8 which has been played previously in this position.

12.\Bhe1

A natural move which develops my least active piece.

12... 如b8 13. ge4!? gf6

Black needs to get active, so this is a good try.

14.包g5!?

14.\(\dag{L}\)xd6 cxd6 15.\(\dag{D}\)d5\(\delta\) would have been a better way of playing for White. Black gets an isolated pawn, and White still has more space.

14...包b4?!

14. ∅g5 would have been a strong move, were it not for 14...h6 15. 2xe6 fxe6 which basically equalizes for Black. Dale's idea with 14... 4b4 was a bit too ambitious.

15. &xd6! cxd6 16. 公xe6 fxe6?

Dale was already in mild time trouble, and this move gives White a nearly winning position. 16... \(\mathbb{\text{\psi}}\) xe6! 17. \(\daggera\) d5 (17.a3 \(\daggera\) a2+ 18. ♠xa2 ∰xa2 19.c3 and White has a small advantage, but the position is pretty unclear after 19...d5; 17. \\displace{\mathbb{m}}{b}6?! d5 17... ②xd5 18. 置xd5±.

18... 包d5 was a better try, but it still leaves White clearly on top after 19.\(\mathbb{L}\)xd5 exd5 20.\(\pi\xd5 \)\(\pi\hf8 21.c4\(\phi\); 18...\(\pa\)\(\pi\a2+\?\) loses quickly to 19. $\dot{\phi}$b2\pm .

19.\(\partial\)xc6 \(\partial\)xc6 \(\partial\)xc6 \(\partial\)xc6 \(\partial\)xc6

The rest isn't too difficult.

21... 中c7 22. 單d4 單hf8 23.f3 單f5 24. 單b4

Maybe not the best move but tough to face in time pressure. White threatens 25. \Ze7+  $\mathbb{Z}$ d7 26. $\mathbb{Z}$ b7+  $\mathbb{Z}$ xb7 27. $\mathbb{Z}$ xd7+ followed by ## 24... \( \text{Z}\) d7 25. \( \text{Z}\) e8 \( \text{Z}\) b5 26. a4 \( \text{Z}\) b6?

It's important to stay alert even when the position is lost, since this move makes White's life quite a bit easier.

30. 異xa6 中b7 31. 星b6+ 中c7 32. 星b4 1-0

And Black resigned. I felt that I played this game pretty well, and I managed to win my last round as well to finish first and qualify for the Edmonton International.

Alberta Open & AGM

By Tony Ficzere

As tradition would have it, the 2009 Alberta Open was held over the Thanksgiving weekend. This year it was Edmonton's turn to host the event. Ford Wong was the tournament organizer, but at the last minute work got in the way and he asked me if I would be willing to direct. No problem.

The tournament accommodated 35 players at the Edmonton Chess Club, down considerably from last year's turnout of 48 when it was held in Calgary. It was interesting to see that over one half of the players came from outside of Edmonton. Calgary had the largest number of players (outside of Edmonton), but there were entrants from Grande Prairie, Lethbridge, La Crete, and Saskatchewan. There were several players noticeably absent from the Edmonton scene. Maybe it was a case of turkey madness!

The top was strong with visiting IM Ihor Nester of Poland joining the tournament. It was just a coincidence that he was in town for Alberta's premier open event, so why not play. Edmonton's Vladimir Pechenkin was the highest rated Albertan in the tournament, ranked 2nd just behind Nester. Of course these two players met in the fifth round, and it was Pechenkin who emerged victories, defeating Nester with the black pieces, then drawing with Rob Gardner in the last round to capture clear first with 5/6. Tied for 2nd-4th were IM Nestor, FM Huber and Rob Gardner with 4.5/6.

Adie Todd and Tim Pradzinski split the first and second spots in the U2000 class with 3.5/6. The final prize in this section saw a logjam with seven players at 3/6.

David Miller claimed the top Under 1700 prize scoring 2.5/6. Eoin Dunne won the biggest upset prize with his first round win against Aaron Sequillion.

All in all the event ran without a hitch.

The annual ACA AGM was held on the Sunday between rounds three and four. Several new board members were elected, and Mike Sekuloff decided to repeat as president for another term. Here are the board members for 2009-2010. Note that "new" means this person is new to the board for 2010, but may have served in previous years:

Southern Alberta Open

By Tony Ficzere

The 2009 edition of the Southern Alberta Open was a great success in many ways. The Calgary Chess Club is an excellent venue providing very good playing conditions. The players were perfect from start to finish, no major problems reared their ugly heads. We even went live on the top three boards throughout, and I think I've mastered the scary DGT boards!

For this year's tournament, I thought it would be a nice touch if I made a website for the event. Nothing too fancy, just some place where fans and players could go to check pairings, results, view a few pictures and watch a few games. I will do this again in future tournaments when possible. Maybe I can convince the Calgary Chess Club to purchase some DGT boards, or perhaps invest in a few MonRoi devices. We will see.

A total of 27 players registered, 12 of them from out of town. Edmonton sent down the largest contingent of players (6), while Grande Prairie also provided a couple players. Lloydminster, La Crete and even Sudbury Ontario were represented. The turnout was a little on the low side and would have been better had it not been opposed to the WYCC. We probably would have reached 30 players if it had not been for this minor conflict.

The top was strong again, as it is with many Alberta tournaments. The fact that the SAO is also a qualifier to the Alberta Closed is part of this reason. However, the masters didn't do so well this time around. In the final round, Dale Haessel played Kim Nguyen with the White pieces, but it was Kim who snatched the win when Dale played inaccurately. Kim snuck up from behind to take clear first, a good chunk of the money and a spot in the 2010 Alberta Closed with 4.5/5. Congratulations Kim! Dale had to settle for 2nd with 4/5. Hafiz Karmali, Roy Yearwood and Vlad Rekhson split 3rd prize at 3.5/5. Mavros Whissell played solid throughout but faced still completion as he had to play both the 1st and 2nd place finishers of the tournament. He finished out of the cash, but seemed to have a good time anyway. Mavros would be a welcome addition to the Alberta chess scene.

Aaron Sequillion who recently dipped under 2000 (how convenient) squealed his way to top honors in the U2000 section with 3/5. Six other players split the rest of the money in this section at 2.5/5. I am seriously considering using tie-breaks to determine clear winners for the prize fund (like they do in Europe) however I feel I will meet with some stiff resistance if I try this.

Eoin Dunne claimed the Top U1700 prize as well as the biggest upset in the tournament (second tournament in a row Eoin has done this, one day his rating will catch up with him) with 2/5. Phil Holmstrom took 2nd at 1.5/5 while Mike Scholz claimed 3rd with a single point.

Thanks go to the Edmonton Chess Club for loaning the DGT boards for the event. Thanks also to Jim Daniluk who provided much needed support to the TD for the entire tournament. Roy Yearwood also needs to be thanked for getting me there on Saturday morning as well as providing some very nice plaques to the top 3 finishers in the Open and Under 2000 sections (courtesy of the Calgary Chess Club). It was a pleasure to run this event.

Alberta Blitz Championship

By Tony Ficzere

The University of Calgary laid claim to the title of this event. Adie Todd and Monica Sommerville organized what turned out to be a great tournament. It was held at the MacEwen Student Centre. A total of 25 players, both student and non-student came out to play. At least 3 masters were in attendance as well. The format was a double round robin

Daniel Kazmaier took clear first with 15.5/16, giving up a single draw to Juraj Pivovarov in the second round. Roy Yearwood grabbed 2nd getting points from everyone except Daniel. Jean Francois Wen came out of retirement (chessically speaking) and took 3rd. Sadly, this marks the last Calgary event for some time for Nicholas Moloney who left for Germany the week after this event finished. Nicholas is a class act all the way and will be missed by everyone in Alberta who crossed his path. Best of luck in Germany Nicholas!

Jean Francois Wen vs. Daniel Kazmaier

Nicholas leaves us with the following words:

I would like to take this opportunity to say thank you to the Alberta chess community. I only started playing tournament chess again in January after a 6 year break from the game, and I'm happy that chess has once again become an active part of my life. Chess is fundamentally a social activity, with both players searching for a vision of the truth according to their own logic and tastes. In fact, during the course of a game there is an additional opponent: the inherent objective truth. Even though you may have beaten your opponent, you may not have beaten the position. Part of the enduring fascination of chess is that each individual has their own interpretation on unveiling this objective truth, and chess is rich enough that we are still arguing over the best approach. Computers now subject our intuition to ruthless rigor, and I think it is revealing that the quality of grandmaster chess has generally improved over the last twenty years as a result. Chess is one of the best mediums I know for exploring the interface between subjectivity and objectivity.

The Alberta chess community is small, but it is well-organized and friendly. Very friendly. Chess is already fun and interesting by itself, but to play it in such a welcoming and encouraging environment makes it more appealing. Chess has taken me to Grande Prairie, Edmonton, Red Deer, into schools, and round and round in circles in a simultaneous display. Many of the friends I made during my two year stay in Calgary are from chess. My only regret is that I didn't join the chess scene sooner. It was a pleasure to participate in this community.

Alberta Junior Chess Championship

By Tony Ficzere

Organized by Simon Ong at the Calgary Chess Club on November 7th and 8th, the 2009 Alberta Junior was a huge success. Simon added a Reserve section this year to allow more players to participate. This turned out be be a good idea as he received more entries in the Reserve section than in the Championship section. One small problem was the fact that the tournament was held too close to the WYCC as there were 5 Albertans who would make the trip to Turkey the day after the Alberta Junior. Only one of those players (David Zhang) braved this event and the WYCC.

When Simon organizes a tournament, he goes that extra mile to see that everything is done to perfection. The night before the tournament started, Simon and his crew decorated the tournament hall, set up all the boards and even made table cards for each and every player who would be there. When I arrived on Saturday morning it was like I had walked into the wrong building. I hardly recognized the club as it looked too good! The Calgary Chess Club provided food and beverage over the weekend to make the tournament experience as enjoyable as possible for all players.

The opening ceremonies were conducted by Simon. He used a powerpoint presentation to go over the format and tournament rules. This was especially important because there were many inexperienced players in the Reserve section who had never played in a tournament of this caliber.

The Championship section was made up of six players, and the format was a round robin. All of the games were broadcast over the internet using the Edmonton Chess Club's DGT boards. I had designed a small website to broadcast the games, and publish the pairings, standings and photos. Former Albertan Jan Lazo provided commentary on the games in progress over the Calgary Chess Club Yahoo newsgroup.

Simon also formed an Appeals Committee to handle any disputes that might arise. In my experience, there are always a few problems when players are inexperienced as was the case in the Reserve section. As a matter of fact there were several disputes over the course of the tournament from that section. All disputes were handled promptly and efficiently and most went unnoticed by the other players. The committee was made up of myself, Aveleno Tolentino and Bob Macfie.

The Tournament Hall before the action started

David Zhang emerged victorious to claim the prize money and a spot in the 2010 Canadian Junior. At this point in time, the Chess Federation of Canada has not received a formal bid to host the event. Calgary had considered running it, but decided not to as no suitable date could be found that would benefit both the organizers and the players. David scored 4/6, going undefeated and drawing with Yuekai Wang and David Miller. Nicka Kalaydina and Yuekai Wang split 2nd-3rd with 3.5/6. David Miller finished with 3/6 which was a good result given the completion. Diwen Shi scored 2/6 while newcomer Naveed Virji gained valuable experience against these well seasoned juniors. Congratulations David!

The Reserve section had 12 players and in the end, Raymond Ong (yes, Simon's brother) captured clear 1st with 5/5! Yaroslav Babich claimed 2nd with 4/5 loosing only to Raymond. Krishneel Singh, Chenxi Zhao and Andre Angelo Tolentino each scored 3/6 which was good for a share of 3rd place.

The closing ceremonies were fun to watch as almost everyone got something. Simon had also made a PowerPoint presentation for the closing ceremonies as well! Simon did an outstanding job from start to finish, and has proved to be a big asset for Calgary and Alberta junior chess. I have been to a number of junior events across the country and I can say with confidence that this event was the best junior tournament I have ever attended. I hope that Simon continues to organize and promote chess as long as he is able to. We need more dedicated and enthusiastic organizers like him.

Roy Yearwood has annotated the following instructional game from the Reserve section.

Xu, Bill Zhao, Chenxi Two Knights Defence [C55] Notes by Roy Yearwood

1.e4 e5 2. $\triangle$ c3 $\triangle$ f6 3. $\triangle$ f3 $\triangle$ c6 4. $\triangle$ c4 d6 5.0-0 g6 6.d3 $\triangle$ g7 7. $\triangle$ e3 0-0 8. $\bigcirc$ d2 $\triangle$ e6

Black could have addressed the threat created with White's last three moves by playing 8... $\mathbb{H}e8$, when White's next move could be met with 9... $\mathbb{L}h8$, retaining the fianchettoed Bishop.

9. gh6 gxh6

The exchange of Bishops was inevitable, but Black should have let White initiate it. For example, after 9... $\mathbb{L}$e8, $10.\mathbb{L}$xg7 \mathbb{L}$xg7, the Black King inherits the Bishop's vigil over the f6 and h6 squares. It's a good location for his majesty, but it's a better deal for Black when White has to pay the moving cost, measured in time. Arranging this move is much more difficult after 9...\mathbb{L}$xh6.

People have large blind spots when it comes to retreating moves (especially of the aggressive variety) and Knight moves. White has fallen victim to a two-for-one special. Some of you may wish to stop reading now, as White is never permitted a fighting chance after this, no matter how slight. If, however, you still hang the occasional piece or miscalculate simple combinations more often than you'd like, you may want to hang around a bit longer.

12.&c4 a6

The goal of this move, to force the exchange of White's Bishop for the Knight on c6, was commendable. A sizable material advantage becomes more significant with every piece exchanged. The execution may have been lacking, however. While not ideal, 13.a3 would let White hold onto that Bishop. Black can force the issue by instead playing 12... a5. White doesn't score any real concessions after either 13. $\pm$ d5 c6 14. $\pm$ xf7+  $\sqrt{6}$ xf7 15.b4 or 13.\$b5 a6 14.\$a4 b5 15.b4 bxa4 16.bxa5. but 13.\(\delta\)d5 c6 14.b4 cxd5 15.bxa5 d4 16. Ød5 gets a Knight to an annoying out− post on d5 at the expense of the isolated pawn on a5. While that's no game saver here, it might be worth keeping in mind for other games.

13. 2d5 b5 14. 2b3 2a5 15. 2xc7??

The outpost on d5 wasn't worth a piece.

15...包xb3!

It's good to win a piece. It's even better to force the exchange of even more material while winning that piece. Black would be happy to trade rooks here with 16. ♠xa8 ♠xa1. White sensibly declines this option.

16.axb3 ∰xc7 17.ᡚg5 ∰e7 18.ᡚf3 ∰c7 19.≌ac1 ᡚg4 20.≌fd1 d5

I'm told this was a touch—move error. There's a lesson in that too: always be sure of what piece you will be touching before you do so. The passed pawn this leaves White could be a headache.

21.exd5 ₩c5

Black will regain his pawn, as the Queen attacks both d5 and f2. White doesn't have time to defend them both.

22.c4?

The pawn on d5 is not important. Lines of attack against the King are. White had two ways to defend f2, but 22.\(\mathbb{E}\)f1 confines the Rook to a passive post. The active defence is 22.\(\mathbb{E}\)d2, when 22..\(\mathbb{E}\)xd5 23.\(\mathbb{E}\)cd1 (or 23.\(\mathbb{E}\)e1 — whatever it takes to counter ... e4-e3, exploiting the pinned d-pawn to open other lines) is the best White can find.

22... 對xf2+ 23. 如h1 h5

Black's goal was to bring this pawn to h3, looking to break into the White King's corner office. This could work in the long run, even if White plays h2-h3 and Black is forced to bring the other kingside pawns up to assist, but White still has a couple of major pieces sitting back at base. Shouldn't he be looking to bring them into the game, rather than trying to win with just two pieces attacking four? One possibility is 23... \widetilde{\psi}xb2, which threatens the ... \delta f2+ fork (or ... ②e3, now that \( \mathbb{Z} d2 \) would leave the \mathbb{Z} on c1 undefended) and also to whittle away the pawns closing files his rooks could use. After 24. dg1 bxc4, Black will wind up with a passed pawn on either the a or e-file. Another instructive example is 24.\Bb1? \D\f2+ 25.\D\g1 \D\xd1 26.\Bxc2 ②xc2 27. ②xe5 \( \) \( \) fe8 28.d4 \( \) \( \) xe5! (returning some material to reign in White's pawn mass), 29.dxe5 bxc4 and White's passed d-pawn can no longer find support.

Alberta Chess Report • December 2009 Page 10

However, Black could still have stumbled badly at this point: 23... ②e3?? 24. 置g1?? ②xg2 25. 置cf1 (25... 置xg2?? 營xf3) 25. 營e2 looks good for him, but 24. 置d2 would trap the Queen. Black should still win easily (he'll be up a rook), but he can't afford to be as careless with White's passed pawn (s).

24.\f1

The more active 24.\alphad2 is better.

27.罩b1

White has again opted for the passive defence, but 27.\(\mathbb{Z}\)c2 \(\mathbb{Z}\)b4 doesn't bode well either, especially once the Black Knight can be shifted to c5.

27...e4!

Good move. The b8-h2 diagonal opens for play against the King, the Knight on d3 is supported, and White's defender on f3 is driven from his post.

28.包g5

28...₩e7!

Another good move, much better than giving the Knight a strong outpost with 28...f6? 29. 26. Black may be able to allow that after he's played ... 25+, when Knight and Queen provide good backup for the passed pawn, but I'd rather get the rooks into play first.

29.②xe4?? 營xe4 30.罩bd1 ②f4 31.罩f2 營f5 32.d6 罩ad8 33.g3?? 營c5??

White cannot afford to loosen the defensive wall in front of his King. After 33... 增xh3+34. 全g1 增xg3+35. 全f1 包h3, it can't be far to mate, for example 36. 是e2?? 增g1# or 36. 是fd2 增f3+37. 全e1 置fe8+ and mate next move.

34.\(\mathbb{Z}\)xf4 \(\mathbb{Z}\)xd6 35.\(\mathbb{Z}\)e1 \(\mathbb{Z}\)d2+ 36.\(\mathbb{D}\)h1 \(\mathbb{Z}\)fd8 37.\(\mathbb{Z}\)eff \(\mathbb{Z}\)d1

Black's f-pawn doesn't matter; an exchange of Rooks allows for a quick finish.

38.\(\mathbb{Z}\)xf7 \(\mathbb{Z}\)xf1+39.\(\mathbb{Z}\)xf1 \(\mathbb{Z}\)d2 40.b4 \(\mathbb{Z}\)c6+41.\(\mathbb{Z}\)g1 \(\mathbb{Z}\)g2# 0−1

Obviously, both need to become more alert to the danger of leaving threatened pieces hanging without compensation. Less obvious, but no less important, is the need to make better use of the Rooks. Black could have tried to bring into play sooner. White could have made more active use of his – a failing Black could have tried to exploit with 23...Qxb2.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED!

The ACA is looking for volunteers for the next ACA Casino.
The Casino will be held at the Calgary Casino (1420 Meridian Road NE) on January 31 & February 1.

Food and transportation costs are covered by the ACA. Come on out and support chess in Alberta!

It's worth the gamble!!!

BEYOND ALBERTA

World Youth Chess Championships

The WYCC was held in Antalya, Turkey, from November 11-23. Canada sent a team of 21 players this year, in which 5 were from Alberta.

Many of the games were broadcast daily on the official tournament website. The only problem was that the games didn't start until 1 am here in Alberta. I did watch a couple of games and managed to watch most of Richard Wang's last round game before falling asleep at my computer. Pairings and results were also available and there were a number of others who participated and tried to keep us updated on their own personal blogs. There was no shortage of news from the tournament.

Playing your best chess far from home presents many challenges. You may not like the food, and the time change can make it difficult to adjust your internal clock. Being a distance from your friends and family can also affect your play. It seems that the WYCC is always held in a far away land so Canadians have little choice but to travel thousands of miles to participate.

Be that as it may, Albertans posted some excellent results this year. Most notable was Edmontonian Richard Wang who brought home a bronze medal in the Under 12 section. Richard scored 8.5/11 to take 3rd place on tie-break. If I am not mistaken, this is the first medal Canada has scored at the WYCC since 1986 when Jeff Sarwer brought home the gold in the Under 10 section, and Julia Sarwer brought home the gold in the Girls Under 10 section. Richard's achievement is simply outstanding and all Albertan's and Canadians should be proud of his result.

Both Thomas Kaminski and David Zhang competed in the Under 14 section. This was David's first experience at the WYCC, and he performed better than expected, finishing with 6/11. Thomas was right on his heels with 5.5/11. Both of these results are very promising. Both players finished at 50% or over and I am sure both of them will be back at the WYCC in the years to come.

Eric Hansen and Victor Kaminski represented Alberta and Canada in the Under 18 section. This section was extremely strong with at least 5 GMs and 16 IMs plus a host of FMs. Eric is no stranger to the WYCC and put in a very credible performance in Vietnam in 2008. At that time, Eric was playing in the Under 16 section and tied for 2nd, placing 5th on tiebreaks. None the less, Eric finished with 7/11, good enough for 16th place in the section. Victor also put in a very solid performance in this section, finishing with 5.5/11. Note that all Alberta players finished with 50% or higher. Way to go guys!

The Calgary Chess Club was able to provide some funding for the 4 Calgary players, as well as provide a trainer. IM Miodrag Perunovic of Serbia was on hand to support the players with pre-game prep and post game analysis. This courtesy was also extended to Richard Wang as well.

Congratulations to all participants at this year's WYCC!

The Alberta Chess Association Annual General Meeting Minutes

October 11, 2009, 2:30 pm (Between rounds 3 & 4 of the Alberta Open) Edmonton Chess Club, #204 10840-124 St

Present

Roy Yearwood, Tim Pradzinski, Ford Wong, Bruce Thomas, Richard Pua, Paul Usselman, Ali Razzaq, Phil Holmstrom, George Sponga, Vlad Rekhson, Micah Hughey, Tony Ficzere, Mike Sekuloff

Call to Order and introduction of Officers -President

Mike called meeting to order at 2:41, and announced the board.

Reading last minutes. Tony read All in favour, passed

Reading of the Minutes of the last AGM - Secretary:

Rick Pedersen (secretary) was not present, so Tony Ficzere read the minutes from the last AGM. Micah motioned to approve the minutes without any changes. Vlad Rekhson seconded. All were in favour.

President's Address – President:

Mike said we have insurance and that if anyone had any questions they could contact Tony on the ACA toll free line. Mike wanted to show some appreciation to 3 individuals who have done very much for chess. He thanked Vlad Rekhson, Micah Hughey, and Bruce Thomas for their hard work and dedication to chess in Alberta. Mike then presented each of them with a Tim Horton's gift card.

Financial Report and Statement - Treasurer:

Richard Pua did not have a report ready, and gave a brief account on the bank balances from both the Revenue and Casino accounts. Richard said he was unable to do his position as Treasurer as he did not have enough time to commit to the position. Most of his job revolved around writing cheques, going to bank and working with Tony. Richard said the Treasurer's position involves a considerable amount of work. Richard thanked Tony for his help. It's much easier to assume the Treasurer's position and he hopes someone will take up the job.

Tim Pradzinski asked if we had $70k in the Casino account. Richard said yes, as we received a casino cheque recently. Our next casino will be Jan-Feb 2010.

Roy Yearwood asked when the financial statements will be assessable. Richard said Tony has been putting them together. Tony said they should be ready by the end of October.

Paul Usselman asked if we have an auditor. Tim said we just need two people who will provide an internal audit.

Ford Wong said he and John Quiring had done this in the past.

Roy Yearwood mentioned that we haven't had an external audit recently. Tim said we don't need it.

Roy Yearwood said we can't accept the Treasurer's report.

Micah made a motion to accept the Treasurer's report, Vlad Rekhson seconded. All were against the report. The financial report was not approved.

Tony will complete the financials and post them on the ACA website at the end of October, or at the latest, the first week of November.

Old Business - President:

No old business was brought up.

New Business – President:

Mike asked for any new business. No items were presented.

Executive Director's Report – Executive Director:

Tony read the Executive Director's report.

Mike Sekuloff motioned to accept the report. Vlad Rekhson seconded.

All were in favour.

Election of Officers and Directors:

Micah Hughey took the chair.

President:

Vlad nominated Mike Sekuloff
Micah nominated Vlad, he declined
Phil nominated Micah, he declined
Mike Sekuloff was declared president by acclamation

Treasurer:

Vlad nominated Phil Holmstrom. Phil asked how much work was required. Richard told him that there are lots of cheques each month, some deposits, etc. Tim said the treasurer needs to do all financial reporting for ASRPWF. Phil accepted

No other nominations

Phil was acclaimed Treasurer

Directors:

Micah nominated Tim, he declined Aaron nominated Ali Razzaq, he accepted Micah nominated Vlad Rekhson, he accepted Vlad nominated Ford Wong, Ford declined Tony nominated Roy Yearwood, he accepted Tim nominated Richard Pua, he accepted

Mike declared nominations closed. Elections over.

Mike will fill Ali in on where we meet and other details.

Adjournment

Micah made a motion to adjourn, Tim seconded. All in favour Meeting adjourned at 3:33 pm.
